A College education for your child, figured on to-day's basis, will cost $6000 — an average of $1500 a year.

How are you planning to meet this expense, out of your current income at that time or by easy stages spread over the previous years from your boy's childhood until he is 18?

Bankers, investment, professional and leading business men have selected the Puritan Child's Educational Fund Contract as the best means of creating the fund for their children's education. It is a superlative plan.

More Scholarships Needed

Brown University needs more scholarships that will provide generous of money for freshmen who cannot adequately finance their education.

It has been a common experience to find that desirable applicants for admission have eventually gone elsewhere instead of to Brown because of better scholarship provisions in other similar institutions of learning.

It is easy to say that we ought not to be on a competitive basis with other universities, yet here is a fact from which there is no escape. What are we going to do about it?

A young man comes to Brown for the purpose of entering the freshman class. He is of the type we especially desire. He is intelligent, alert, personable. But it often happens that his parents are of moderate or slight financial resources. The father may be a clergyman or a professional man of some other kind whose income is inconsiderable. The son would obviously reflect credit upon Brown as well as upon himself and his family. But when he finds that another college can give him much more monetary help than Brown can give him, he is apt to turn away from our doors.

One way to prevent this is to establish scholarships yielding the annual tuition fee, namely $400. What better form of memorial could there be than such scholarships, enabling young men of genuine promise to remain at Brown, free from anxiety as to their tuition bills!

It is not only a question of freshmen, moreover, for Brown has lost valued undergraduates who left here at the end of their freshman year or later to go to some other college where their expenses could be more readily met.

Shall It Be Brown College? Mr. Wiener Says No

Editor Brown Alumni Monthly:

That was a very fine editorial you had in the last Alumni Monthly about the Providence students who go elsewhere, and a very timely one, too. Of recent years there has existed an unfortunate tendency to welcome any student who came from afar, as if that alone were indicative of virtue; the farther the better. At the same time, it almost seemed, there was begun a concerted attack on the carpet-bagger, with apparently little discrimination between sheep and goats. I incline to think that the preference accorded the lad whose fare home was a hundred dollars over him who paid but one car-check was a reflex manifestation of that Mammon worship which seems just now to be, painfully perhaps, drawing to a close—in any event, it is good to hear a word spoken for the local student. After all, if Brown is going to continue its influence in city and state, it must draw its students from Providence and Rhode Island; and I venture to believe that the University will attract better and more desirable material from the vicinage in proportion as it welcomes the student who lives at home.

But your next editorial, the one about Brown College, somewhat shocked me; and I recalled the time, some years ago, when Bob Buckley and Gardner Hudson collaborated with me (we were in Cambridge, studying business and law, respectively) in sending a scathing letter to the Herald, utterly blasting an editor who had the temerity to suggest "Brown College." We cited volume and page to him, and chapter and verse as well; and doubtless the lad was properly squelched, for the offence was not repeated. Since then I have come to doubt the value of scathing letters as an instrument of persuasion—perhaps that is a sign of greater wisdom; more likely, however, of increasing lassitude—and blasting editors has quite lost whatever attraction it may once have had; but the mention of "Brown College" still sets my teeth slightly on edge, and when it is you who mention it, I am frankly worried.

I agree that it is embarrassing to write "men's college" in minuscule, and I think it even worse to say, as the catalogue has for several years, "The Undergraduate College for Men." But it does seem to me that the suggested cure is several degrees worse than the disease.

In the first place, there is the euphonic objection, obvious enough to all Brunonians; and there lurk in the background uneasy recollections of would-be wits who used to yell, as one passed in the street, "Brown's College," or, worse still, "Brown's'es."

In the second place, there is no valid historical or traditional background for "Brown College," and the suggested analogy of Harvard and Yale is, I am constrained to believe, another instance of the unfortunate tendency among some Brown men to ape the larger colleges. (It is this that is probably at the bottom of the undergraduate morale, or lack of it—but that would require another letter). At Harvard, as at Yale, the institution was originally the College; and it was only later, when graduate schools had grown up, that the entire aggregation was called the University. But the College retained the same name as before.

Here at Brown, on the other hand, the College was always called Brown University, and I cannot see what harm it does if we frankly admit that the name when given was a bit too imposing for the institution. Now, of course, we have Pembroke College, and well within the memory of man the Graduate School has been enlarged, but always the undergraduate college has been called Brown University and all the alumni consider themselves graduates of Brown University. Their traditions and memories—yes, and their loyalties—are tied up with Brown University, and I for one fail to perceive why all those emotional threads need be severed simply because the Graduate Department is now a Graduate School. We should indeed hesitate before taking such a step. Consistency in nomenclature, I take it, is not per se a virtue; and doubtless you will pardon me for paraphrasing when I suggest that a line of history is here worth a page of symmetry.

Historically, of course, the undergraduate college would be Rhode Island College; but that name has now been (partially, at least) appropriated by others, and there hovers over it an aura or rustic rumination that hardly fits an urban institution such as Brown. To speak of "The University Proper" would clearly be awkward and offhand I can think of no other names.

But do we really need new names? It will not be so frightfully inconvenient to use "Brown University" in two senses. It will be infinitely more inconvenient to use that term, which hitherto has meant only the undergraduate college, to represent the larger organization as distinct from the undergraduate college. The other schools at Brown are outgrowths of the University proper, and I cannot believe that any advantage would accrue from setting up a sort of super-institution as a distinct administrative entity which could not possibly have any emotional connotations.

Or, in other words there is no valid reason, either historical or sentimental or functional, for using the name "Brown College."

I hope that the obvious imperfections of my argument will not react on the merits of the question.

Yours very sincerely,

Frederick Bernays Wiener, '27.

Providence, Dec. 17, 1930.

Sock and Buskin Alumni to Produce Play in Mid-February

With the opening of the second semester, the newly organized Sock and Buskin Alumni Association will open its first season. At that time it will present "The Ladies' Battle; or, A Duel in Love," a three act comedy from the French of MM. Scribe and Legouvé. Performances are scheduled for February 11, 12, and 13, in the Brown Union.

An experienced cast has been assembled to usher in the work of the recently formed Association. Included in it are Professor Thomas Crosby, Jr., '94, who needs no introduction, either to Providence or to Brunonians; Mrs. Irving Fulton Orr, well known for her work with the Providence Players; S. Everett Wilkins, Jr., '24, and Leslie T. Chase, '28, both former presidents of the Brown University Dramatic Society; Miss Elizabeth Alden Pratt; and Powel M. Dawley, '29, Frances B. Armington, '28, and Frederick Bernays Wiener, '27.

The Sock and Buskin Alumni Association was formally organized only a few months ago, as the natural outgrowth and expansion of informal work that had been carried on for some time. Its members are alumni, for the most part officers of Sock and Buskin in their undergraduate days, who are interested in dramatics and dramatic development, both at the University and in the community. By encouraging and assisting the undergraduate Dramatic Society on the campus, and by supplementing its work, the Alumni Association aims to secure for the Society a wider recognition within the community, and thus, ultimately, to interest a wider circle in dramatics and the drama. The objects of the Alumni Association, here but briefly stated, were the subject of a recent article in the Alumni Monthly by Theodore L. Sweet, '22.

The Sock and Buskin Alumni intend, if the support they receive warrants, to extend the scope of their activities, and to produce several plays each season. Plans already made look forward to another production in the spring, some time in April, when "Uncle Tom's Cabin," in genuine antique setting, is, it is hoped, to be placed on the boards. Meanwhile, however, activity centers about "The Ladies' Battle;" work on this play, under the direction of S. Everett Wilkins, Jr., is already well under way.

Prof. Brown on Belgian Malady

Prof. Charles Wilson Brown of the Department of Geology sized up the recent weird malady in Belgium as follows in a Herald interview, Dec. 10: "Probably the White Death of Belgium owes its existence not to bacteria or to war gasses, but to a combination of industrial carelessness combined with favorable meteorological conditions.

"Poisons would have been dissipated by this time. They would have been broken down by ground water and plant acid in the soil.

"About a score of years ago Dr. Barus of Brown conducted an experiment to prove that without dust particles and other impurities there could be no fog. In this experiment some free moist air was put into a glass container. Into this a quantity of ordinary Providence air was forced. The result was that the vessel was immediately filled with a dense fog. . . .

"So it would seem that if enough impurities, especially of a poisonous character from chimneys that give forth fumes of sulphur dioxide and with particles of zinc oxide, were present in the air, it is quite possible that if the meteorological conditions were just right, if the air were nearly 100 per cent. saturated, distresses and choking conditions with fatalities among the weak and asthmatic could very well be expected.

"A prominent engineer of St. Louis, a city having the highest percentage of dust impurities of any city of the United States, told me that he left his residence in the morning, practically free from any distress in breathing, but when he reached his office a half an hour later he gave every evidence of experiencing a severe attack of hay fever.

"My own personal experience in 1922 in an orange grove of Southern California was even more convincing that soot particles have a very sinister effect on the lung tissues. In a frost fighting campaign to save the orange crop they burn many gallons of fuel oil between the rows of orange trees which produces dense clouds of unburned soot. After being in an orchard one night with the temperature below the freezing point, every worker would be coughing continually trying to clear irritants from his lungs. Three days later I was in bed with a slight attack of pneumonia."

Mackesey is Football Captain

On December 15 the Brown football lettermen met for the election of a captain for next year and chose Paul Mackesey, '32, of Lynn, Mass., to succeed W. Lincoln Fogarty, '31, of Flushing, N. Y.

Concerning his election The Providence Journal said the next day:

The election of Paul Mackesey to the captaincy of the Brown football eleven by the lettermen yesterday was met with instant approval of alumni, undergraduates, players, coaches and followers of the team. Mackesey, who hails from Lynn, Mass., was by far the outstanding player on the team during the past campaign, and his selection as the leader for next year marks the first time since 1926 that a lineman has been similarly honored.

Mackesey plays left tackle and has been a letter man on the team for two years. His play in the game with Princeton at the Palmer Stadium this year contributed no small share to the Bears' triumph, and during the week following the contest he was acclaimed by many of the sports writers and coaches as a candidate for the All-American teams at the close of the season.

Had the Bears enjoyed a better season there is little doubt that Mackesey would have received more recognition for his work. As it was, however, he was given honorable mention on most of the mythical championship teams, and it is the firm belief of the followers of the Bears that next year Mackesey will be a genuine threat for national honors.

The successor to Lincoln Fogarty is 20 years old, weighs 195 pounds and is 6 feet 2 inches tall. He prepared for Brown at Lynn Classical and, in spite of the fact that he starred on the gridiron during his high school days, he was not a candidate for Freshman football during his first year on College Hill.

Mackesey first broke into prominence during his sophomore year in 1928, when he was chosen by McLaughry to start in the Yale game when Ferree became injured during practice the week of the game. For some reason or other Mackesey had been passed over in the preliminary selections in that year and prior to the tilt with the Elis had played but occasionally.

Coach McLaughry was so impressed with his performance against Yale that from then on he was listed as a regular. This year he again continued the fine work which earned him a place on the team in 1928 and today he rates as one of the best tackles that has ever represented Brown in inter-collegiate football.

Manager Joe O'Neil announced that Mackesey was elected on the first ballot by a unanimous vote. Mackesey is the first lineman to be captain of a Brown team since 1926, when Hal Broda led the famous Brown eleven of that year through the season undefeated, and the first tackle to be given the highest honor his team mates can bestow since 1923, when John Spellman, now a member of the local fraternity, captained the Bears. He is a member of the Delta Tau Delta fraternity and in addition to football plays on the Brown lacrosse team. Mackesey was recently elected an officer of the Junior class and is prominent in other extra-curricular activities on the Hill.

A Gift from John P. Elton

The John Hay Library has received from John P. Elton the gift of a scrap-book of interesting miscellaneous material referring to the late Professor Romeo Elton, who was born in 1795 and graduated from Brown in 1813. He was professor of Ancient Languages and Literatures at Brown from 1825 to 1843. He then resigned, and lived in England for twenty-five years, engaged in study and writing. The rest of his life was spent in America, where he was in demand as a lecturer; indeed, he was lecturing in Boston only a few days before his death, which occurred in 1870.

A picturesque entry in the scrap-book is a newspaper clipping which tells how Professor Elton spoke at Commencement (held in those days in September), and was greeted by the students with three cheers. This was in 1869, and in a brief address Professor Elton spoke with satisfaction of the then recent opening of Oxford and Cambridge to all denominations of Christians. He also mentioned that during the war he had been able to insert in English journals statements favorable to the American government. He must have been of sterner stuff than some expatriates; his kinsman, Sir Arthur Hallam Elton (named for Tennyson's Arthur Hallam), had written to him (a copy of his letter was sent to the John Hay Library with the scrap-book) that the North might well let the South secede. And Sir A. H. Elton was a liberal man, for his time and environment.

A passport of 1826 indicates that the passport nuisance was worse then than now; being too bulky for pasting in, it is placed loosely in the scrap-book. It is in French, was issued in London, and was addressed by the American Legation to whom it might concern. It contains more than fifty verses.

Several letters to John Carter Brown are of interest—especially one dated 1850 and containing the following passage: "I . . . ascertained the birth-place of Roger Williams . . . I have since been indefatigable in my correspondence and researches. I have the pleasure to say that I have obtained much additional information respecting his ancestry, his early life and education, and also some letters which have not been published." The letters later appeared in Dr. Elton's Life of Roger Williams.

The Name of the Men's College

A correspondent whose letter we print elsewhere in this issue of the Alumni Monthly objects to our proposal that the name of the men's college at Brown shall be Brown College. Well, then, what shall we call it? Just the men's college (small initials and all, as at present) or Brown University, as he suggests, tranquilly oblivious of the fact that it is, under the present system, actually a department of the university rather than the whole institution, as it used to be?

In support of our correspondent's preference, we may say that Brown once had a medical school, in spite of which fact the academic department was called Brown University. Then, as now, there was the anomaly, (as respects nomenclature) of the whole being equal to one of its parts. For his argument, therefore, Mr. Wiener has a historical parallel, or at least something approaching such a parallel.

The question still remains, however, as to whether we would do well to follow that ancient example. Simply because a thing or a condition has once existed is not necessarily a sufficient justification for repeating or resurrecting it. We feel, as our correspondent does, that there are objections to Brown College as a name for the Department of Undergraduate Men, but we like it better than the latter ungraceful designation. And we cannot shake off the idea that Brown University in Brown University is not satisfactory when in name or in fact.

If we are to have neither Brown College or Brown University as a name for the men's college, what shall it be? On this point we are sure that there will be general agreement that the name Brown must endure. It then becomes a simple question whether to the name of Brown shall be added the designation of College or University. As for that we would like to hear from some of our interested readers. The Daily Herald endorses the Alumni Monthly in the latter's suggestion of Brown College. And by the way we are not very strenuous about this suggestion.

Notes of the Month

Boston University's Freshman debaters beat the Brown Freshman team at Boston, Dec. 12. Brown had the negative of the resolution: "Prohibition is a noble experiment."

Winners of the Class of 1880 prize, Dec. 12, debating the question: "Should the number of required courses (A. B. and Ph. B.) be materially reduced?" were (1st) Jacob Schiff Light, '31, (2d) Daniel Jacobs, '31; (3d) Irving Addison Beck, '32. John Bell Rae, '32, who won the debate last year, won the essay contest this year.

Ex-Captain Fogarty of the Brown varsity football team had left Providence when this issue of the Monthly went to press, for California, in response to an invitation to play as a member of the All-Star Eastern team for charity, on the Pacific Coast, Wednesday, Jan. 1. Captain "Bud" Edwards of the 1929 team was similarly invited a year ago.

Prof. Pratt of the University of California read a paper on "Is there a Case for Nominalism?" before the University Philosophy Club at Brown on Dec. 11.

The Brown Daily Herald has, after two months of competition, elected four freshmen to its Editorial Staff: F. V. Biery of Andover, Mass.; H. G. Carpenter, Jr., of Flushing, N. Y.; Bancroft Littlefield of Providence, and Harold Seidman of Brooklyn, N. Y.

The Freshman Cabinet of the Brown Christian Association has been elected as follows: President, Edward A. Hickey of Washington, D. C.; Vice President, Samuel S. Johnston of Eccleston, Md.; Secretary, R. S. Hall of Wollaston, Mass.; Treasurer, Marshall Dudley of Kenilworth, Ill. Meetings will be held twice a month and in addition there will be joint meetings with the Sophomore, Junior and Senior Cabinets.

The eleventh annual convention of the Association of College and University Unions was held at Brown in early December. Delegates were present from many parts of the country.

Quotations from Dr. Faunce

The following illustrations of the late President Faunce's philosophy are taken from his fine (and last) volume, "Facing Life."

"Find and feel the truth."

"Always carry the open mind and keep first things first."

"Open the shutters and see what happens!"

"There is no romance like—doing one's duty."

"Believe in yourself and your fellow men!"

"To see clearly is the first step in living nobly."

"We all have the twenty-four hours in the day."

"Exalt character as the supreme aim in education."

"All minds are really part of one mind."

"The college is the 'interpreter's house'."

"I believe in the perpetual brotherhood of men."

"The swift changes that threaten us also summon us."

Brown Interests of All Sorts

Dudley of Syracuse

From manager of a department 23 years ago to president today—so reads the chronicle of A. Dean Dudley, '02, who is entering upon his first year as head of the Syracuse Lighting Company, one of the great public utility organizations of Northern New York. He succeeds John C. DeLong, who held the office of president for 20 years.

After his graduation from college, Dudley went with the United Gas Improvement Company of Philadelphia, with which he spent five years in investigation and promotional work. Then the U. G. I. took over the Syracuse properties and sent him to Syracuse, where he began as manager of the Commercial Department and continued in that capacity until 1918, when he was named treasurer of the company and assistant secretary.

In 1929 he assumed the duties of vice president, ostensibly to prepare him for promotion to the post of president. Now that he is at the helm, he becomes the energizing force behind improvements and expansions that call for an outlay of several millions. Plans approved by the directors include a new gas plant at Hiawatha Boulevard in Syracuse, removal of the old gas plant on Erie Boulevard, and the construction of an office building, service centre and garage on a site owned by the company on Franklin Street.

Dudley has been an active figure in industrial and financial affairs in Syracuse for some years. He is a founder and chairman of the Lincoln National Bank and Trust Company, chairman of the Industrial Fund of the Chamber of Commerce and on the board of directors of the Cortland County Traction Company of Cortland, N. Y. Serving with him on the board of the Lincoln National Bank and Trust Company is W. Cornell Blanding, '02, of the Crouse Hinds Company, electrical appliance manufacturers, of Syracuse.

Mrs. Palmer Passes Away

Rieta Babcock Palmer, wife of Henry Robinson Palmer, editor of the Brown Alumni Monthly, died unexpectedly of heart trouble on Christmas Day, Dec. 25, 1930, at their home, 119 Prospect Street, Providence. Burial was at Stonington, Ct., their summer home, on Dec. 28.

In the first number of the Monthly, published in June, 1900, appeared the announcement of Mr. and Mrs. Palmer's forthcoming marriage at Stonington on June 14 of that year.

Mrs. Palmer was born in New York city on Feb. 2, 1876, the daughter of Col. Courtlandt Guyenet Babcock and Mary Burnet (Woodruff) Babcock. Most of her life was spent in Stonington, but for the last five years the family has spent the major part of the year in Providence. She is survived by her husband, a graduate of Brown University in the class of 1890, by three children, Louis Babcock Palmer, Brown, 1928; Henry Robinson Palmer, Jr., a Senior at Moses Brown School in Providence, and Mary Babcock Palmer, a student at the Mary C. Wheeler School in this city; and by two brothers, Harry Woodruff Babcock, Yale, 1900, of Stonington, and Courtlandt Woodruff Babcock, Yale, 1903, of Brookline, Mass.

Junior Class Election

J. R. Caulkins of Brooklyn, N. Y., a member of Alpha Delta Phi, has been elected president of the Junior class. P. F. Mackesey (captain-elect of next year's varsity football team) is first vice president and D. H. Scott is second vice president. Mackesey comes from Lynn, Mass., and is a member of Delta Tau Delta, and Scott, of Newton Centre, Mass., belongs to Delta Upsilon. Caulkins has played on the varsity football, baseball and basketball teams. Mackesey has played lacrosse as well as football, and Scott won his letter in hockey last year.

By an oversight we omitted last month to give credit to Brunotes for the excellent cut of the 1930 varsity football squad which we printed on the cover of the magazine. We herewith offer our apologies and regrets.

Brown Key

In an attempt to simplify and increase the efficiency of its work in entertaining visiting athletic squads, the Brown Key Society has revised its organization.

Following are the members of the respective committees. Basketball Committee: J. C. Ferrebee, Chairman, J. G. Sawyer, H. L. Harris, P. F. Mackesey, J. R. Caulkins, W. B. Presba. Hockey Committee: A. E. Lorquist, Chairman, D. H. Scott, S. C. Paige, H. W. Palmer, M. A. Cancelliere. Swimming Committee: D. E. Ewing, Chairman, P. W. Koebig, H. S. Butler, S. V. Van Derzee, C. G. Quinn. Wrestling Committee: J. R. Dolan, Chairman, J. J. O'Shaughnessy, J. T. Cushing.

These committees are for the University as well as Freshman Sports. The committeemen are players in their respective sports. The idea of this system is that the responsibility is placed on definite persons. The Brown Key society as a whole will not be held responsible for the lack of cooperation on the part of a few individuals. In as many cases as possible, the assistant manager of the sport has been made chairman of the committee, and he will be held responsible not only to the Brown Key, but also to the Undergraduate Athletic Council. He will also be held responsible for getting in touch with the visiting teams well in advance, as well as in making arrangements after their arrival in Providence.

Dr. Faunce's Voice On Victor Record

The late President Faunce made just one Victrola recording of his voice, besides his one Vitaphone presentation about two years ago. His speech "Getting Ready To Live" is available to all who desire a copy of the Victor record by notifying A. H. Gurney, Alumni Secretary. The distribution of these records is strictly a non-commercial proposition, and the records of this private recording will be forwarded at cost—C.O.D. at the rate of $1.50 each plus the cost of mailing, the total amount to be paid on receipt of the order.

Alumni Books for Library

We heartily endorse the following letter:

As a member of the Brown University Library staff I wonder if I may make a suggestion regarding Brown University authors. We have in the Library a special collection comprised of the works of Brown University writers. Most of them have been given to us by the authors, but I think many Brown men and women do not know that when they publish a book the Brown University Library would like to be included among those to whom a gift copy is sent. Perhaps if you could give this fact publicity in the Alumni Monthly we would receive books from authors who may have been reluctant to call their work to our attention in this way. Of course with books we include monographs and pamphlet articles. I have met several graduates who did not know that we were anxious to have their work in our library, and it is because of this that I write.

Very sincerely,
Edith R. Blanchard
Reference Librarian.

Death of John B. Lewis

As this issue of the Monthly goes to press, news comes of the death of John Bosworth Lewis, a member of the class of 1896 who left college previous to graduation. He died from a heart attack at the Copley Plaza Hotel in Boston, Dec. 29, 1930, in his 57th year. He was head of the firm of John D. Lewis, manufacturer and importer of dyestuffs and chemicals, of Providence, Boston and New York.

He was born in Providence, March 19, 1874, a son of the late John D. and Sophie P. Lewis. Throughout his life he had lived in Providence and Wakefield. He became associated with the John D. Lewis company in 1897.

In addition to his position as head of the dyestuffs and chemical firm, Mr. Lewis was active in the directorate of several financial institutions.

He was also a yachtsman and an aviation enthusiast, having secured a license to fly in August of this year.

He was a director in the Providence National Bank, Petroleum Industries, Inc., and the Industrial Safe Deposit Company, as well as a trustee in the Providence Institutions for Savings. He also was administrator of the estate of Benjamin N. Lapham.

Mr. Lewis is survived by his widow, Mrs. Harriet Sprague Watson Lewis; three sons, John B., Jr., Arthur H. W. and Dexter L. Lewis; a sister, Mrs. William L. Mauran, and three grandchildren, Nancy Jane, Ann Watson and John B. Lewis, 3rd. The two grand daughters are children of Arthur H. W. Lewis and the grandson is a child of John B. Lewis, Jr.

Mr. Lewis became interested in aviation a decade ago and made several flights at that time with Inspector Allan Bourdon, now of the Department of Commerce. When Mr. Lewis received his license to fly, at What Cheer Airport last August, Inspector Bourdon gave him the test to qualify.

Mr. Lewis made a solo flight in a Stearman plane at Brainard Field, Hartford, Conn., in July of this year and during the past summer was accustomed to fly to work from Wakefield to the Providence airport and return. His sons also are interested in aviation.

He was also an enthusiastic yachtsman and owner of the yacht Eustacia. His residence was at Wakefield.

The Brown Clubs Report

By A. H. Gurney, Alumni Secretary

WITH the election of E. A. Adams, '12, as vice president and C. Henry Smith, '99, University of Colorado, and T. Harper Goodspeed, '09, University of California, as directors of the Western District, and of F. E. Whitaker, '88, of Woonsocket as a director of the Rhode Island District, the new Board of Directors of the Associated Alumni is complete.

Vice President Adams, who has been an active worker for the Regional Plan since its inception, understands the problems confronting the Western District in reaching Brown men who are scattered over a wide area. He has been in touch for the past several months with a considerable number of alumni up and down the Pacific Coast and as far east as

Reunion Section

(2nd Installment)

ON the invitation of Dr. Bumpus, Secretary of the Corporation, a meeting of the representatives of the reunion classes was held at the Hope Club on the evening of October 24.

At this meeting the opinion was expressed that if the class lists brought up to date were published in the Alumni Monthly, the work of those having the preliminary arrangements in charge would be materially furthered. It was suggested that a section of the publication might be set apart and used for the insertion of such news items, prospective plans, general information, etc., as might be of interest to those preparing for this home-coming event. The following were appointed members of an interclass committee on general arrangements: Brenton G. Smith, '11, Eliot G. Parkhurst, '06, and Henry C. Hart, '01.

The Monthly is accordingly issuing this supplement and trusts that members of the respective reunion classes will send the Alumni Secretary such items as they feel will prove of interest.

Denver and he reports that he feels certain that these men will cooperate to the fullest extent.

"I am hopeful that some scheme can be worked out," he said in a recent letter, "which will give all of these men a common interest and get them together on some definite work which will keep them closer to Brown. I hope to get all of the clubs working for the Loyalty Fund. I am also going to try to get all of the clubs working to secure desirable men from the West Coast."

In addition to Adams, the vice presidents are: Dr. Edwin A. Locke, New England; A. B. Lemon, Rhode Island; D. F. O'Brien, Atlantic-Midland; and Sherman M. Strong of Chicago, Central District. All of them are alert Brown men; all of them are cooperating to bring the great body of alumni and former students closer together and develop it into a strong working force for Brown.

New York

Not in years has there been a finer program of speaking than the one put on by the Brown University Club in New York at its annual dinner at the Hotel Astor on Dec. 11. Everett Colby as presiding officer, former Governor Edward C. Stokes of New Jersey as toastmaster, President Barbour, Charles Evans Hughes, Jr., Professor James T. Shotwell of Columbia and Arthur A. Ballantine, lawyer, who is a Harvard graduate—this was the line-up. And a winning one in every respect, well-balanced, inspiring and witty.

The regret is that the number of Brown men present was so small. There was special regret at the enforced absence of Dennis F. O'Brien, '98, president of the club, who outlined the plans for the dinner; and your correspondent missed many a good Brown man with whom the New York dinner is associated.

Governor Stokes's opening speech was as bright as it was challenging. The Governor, as young as the youngest alumnus there, said that "democracy cannot succeed unless our best brains and patriotism direct its course," and he issued a stirring call to college men—and to Brown men in particular—for intellectual leadership to save America from the fate that threatened. His allusions to politics and politicians were sharp and effective; his anecdotes and his personalities were a joy to his auditors.

President Barbour gave a lively report of the news of College Hill during the past few months and described succinctly the findings of the Committee on Survey. He showed a copy of the report which is being sent by Dr. H. C. Bumpus's office to alumni and former students who ask for copies and said that it was the most important document ever issued by the University. He encouraged the careful reading of it—a reading which, he was sure, would stir a deeper interest in the Brown of the present as well as the Brown of the future. Dr. Barbour also paid high compliment to the men who are working with him—Dr. Mead, Dean Arnold, Dean Richardson, Mr. Guild, Professor Currier, Mr. Burlingame and others directly concerned with the administration. He likewise had a good word for the Brown Daily Herald and the general attitude of the undergraduates toward their scholastic work. His talk was indeed of the kind that strengthens the spirit and renews the determination to help Brown realize its assets to the fullest extent.

Charlie Hughes spoke briefly of his work as Solicitor General of the United States, and in the course of his talk praised the sincerity and intelligence of the men in the Department of Justice in a way that made at least one of his auditors want to cheer. Professor Shotwell, introduced as the man behind the Kellogg-Briand Peace Treaty, said that international questions and national questions were inextricable and that, despite all efforts to the contrary, the United States could no longer stand aloof. "Intelligence," he added, "is on the march." And he called upon college graduates to play their part wholeheartedly in advancing the cause of international peace. Mr.

Ballantine's discourse was genuinely delightful, full of satire, yet without too much sting in it. Although he had no label for his talk, it might well have been "Prejudice and Ignorance, or 'The Bases of Contentment.'"

W. Bruce Loomis, '26, led the singing (which Governor Stokes aptly said could have been better!) and Byron M. Hatfield, '22, sang several solos with charm and feeling. Hatfield, in fact, not only saved the singing but made his share in it one of the high spots of the dinner.

Boston

Preparations for the annual dinner of the Brown Club of Boston on Saturday evening, Jan. 31, are going on apace. The date is one to note and to remember. The dinner will be a memorable one, according to the club officers.

Dr. H. C. Bumpus, secretary of the University Corporation, was the speaker at the November luncheon; and Dr. Edwin B. Wilson, Professor of Vital Statistics at Harvard Medical School, spoke on the subject "Social Science Research," at the December luncheon, held Thursday, Dec. 18, at the Chamber of Commerce. Dr. Wilson has been doing some interesting work during the past two years as chairman of the Committee on Social Science Research at the Medical School, and the Brown Club counts itself fortunate in being able to secure him as its guest and speaker.

Dr. Bumpus gave an illuminating talk on the survey and Brown's educational policy. More than forty members of the club heard him.

Rochester

Rev. Dr. Clarence E. Chaney, '30, honorary, speaking at the Brown Club luncheon at the Chamber of Commerce on Dec. 3, 1930, painted a vivid and arresting word picture of some of the background of the Round Table Conference in London, at which the conferees were trying to work out a constitution embodying a satisfactory sort of self-government for India—satisfactory to the natives and at the same time acceptable to the British interests.

Dr. Chaney, who is spending the better part of a year in Rochester, is field secretary of the American Baptist Foreign Mission Society in the administration of missionary work among ten races throughout Burma, and knows India well.

In his highly-engaging talk he referred particularly to the strong support given to the allied cause by the natives during the World War and the promise of self-government resulting from that support—a promise which, when carried out to a certain degree, failed to satisfy the natives. He touched upon the boycotting and the rioting which followed attempts to please all factions, told of the propaganda respecting the salt revenue, and that of non-payment of taxes; and expressed the belief that, even though the right of direct representation at the Round Table had not been accorded, some of the ablest of the natives who were sitting at the conference at Britain's invitation would succeed in obtaining sufficient concessions as to form the basis of a workable system of self-government.

A letter from Mrs. Kenneth O. Mason in appreciation of the sympathy sent her was read, as well as a copy of the minutes of the meeting of the Executive Committee of the Associated Alumni on Nov. 14, forwarded by Dennis F. O'Brien, '98, vice president of the Atlantic-Midland District. Also there was received official notice of vacancies in the University Board of Trustees and Athletic Council and a request from the Brown Musical Clubs for a spring concert in Rochester. President Hebner led the meeting, others present being Atwater, J. B. Barbour, Cristy, Gardner, Hawkins, Honiss, Issac, Dr. Joseph Taylor and E. W. Holmes.

Brown Engineers

President Clarence A. Barbour will be the guest of honor at the annual dinner of the Brown Engineering Association to be held at the Hotel Wentworth, New York, Friday, Jan. 30. It will be recalled that Dr. Barbour made his first appearance as President of Brown before the engineers in New York a year ago, and the largest number of engineers on record turned out to welcome him. The committee hopes to exceed this number on the occasion of Dr. Barbour's second visit.

G. Denny Moore, '11, Eastern District Manager of the Grinnell Company, was the speaker at the dinner meeting of the association which took place at the Brown Club, Hotel Wentworth, Dec. 4. There were forty alumni present, including several members of the Faculty who were in New York attending the annual meeting of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers. Denny Moore, witty and right up to form, traced in clear manner the development of fire protection engineering, with special reference to the automatic sprinkler which was the invention of the founder of the Grinnell Company. He reviewed the contributions which Brown men have made to the progress of the company, and it was surprising to learn the number of Brown men who have been on the Grinnell payroll—Russell Grinnell, '97, Don Pryor, '08, Denny Moore, '11, W. A. Kennedy, '06, A. J. Loepsinger, '06, J. O. Fuller, '17, Harry Coleman, '19, among them. Professors James A. Hall and P. N. Kistler spoke briefly. Professor Hall reviewed the report of the Committee on Survey, citing in particular the findings with regard to the Division of Engineering.

Other Meetings

Too late for reporting in this issue was the meeting of the Brown Club at Hartford, held at the University Club, Hartford, Thursday evening, Dec. 18, with A. H. Gurney, the Alumni Secretary, as the speaker. The Brown Club of New Bedford will gather at the Tabitha Inn in Fairhaven, Tuesday evening, Jan. 13, to elect officers and to hear Dr. A. D. Mead, Vice President of the University. The clubs in Chicago, Detroit and Cleveland were also planning meetings to greet Dean Samuel T. Arnold, Professor James P. Adams and other members of the Faculty who were visitors to the Middle West during the Christmas recess.

Brown Winter Sports Prospects

By Louis B. Palmer, 1928

Now that the football players have hung up their moleskins for another season, the attention of sport fans is turned towards indoor sports: namely, swimming, basketball, hockey, and wrestling. Following a brief rest, the Brown athletes who were on the football squad have joined the squads of the various other teams, and the winter season is about to get under way once more. It is always dangerous to predict, but right now it appears as if Brown teams were slated for a much better-than-average year.

To take up each sport very briefly. The basketball team is intact from last season, and altho its record was rather spotty, its members have the advantage of having played together for a year, and should do better in 1930-31. Thirty men have been practising regularly, but the lettermen have so far been superior to the rest. Captain Paul Snyder, high scorer last year, and Jack Caulkins, who came along fast at the end of the season last winter, will handle the forward positions; Bob Brown or Skinner will be at centre, while Joe Schein, varsity football guard and Mantell will hold down the guard positions, with Bud Hemelright in reserve. With lettermen available for every position, it would seem as though the team should be a good one. Schedule: Dec. 10, Boston University at Boston; 13, Northeastern; 17, Clark at Worcester; Jan. 8, W. P. I.; 14, M. I. T.; 17, Wesleyan; 21, Connecticut at Storrs; 24, Tufts at Medford; Feb. 6, Yale at New Haven; 7, Princeton; 14, open; 18, Rhode Island at Kingston; 20, Colgate; 23, Dartmouth; 25, Harvard at Cambridge; 28, Villanova; March 4, Providence College in Brown Gymnasium; 7, New Hampshire at Durham; 11, Rhode Island; 14, Holy Cross at Worcester.

With the exception of Don Hunt at goal, and Capt. Phil Lingham at defense, both of whom were graduated in June, every member of last year's hockey team is again available this year. Coach Tom Taylor will undoubtedly use Wacky Moulton, Dave Scott and Eddie Crane for his firststring forward line, with Rip Hurley, Stan Paige and Ed Ahern or Flynn to relieve them. Both lines are intact from last year. Capt. Alden Walls will hold down one defense post, while Penn Hargrove or Scott seem the most logical for the other. Bob Hutton will be the goalie. Last season Coach Taylor's outfit won eight and lost but three games, and it seems likely that this year's combination will do even better. The schedule: Dec. 17, Boston University at Boston; Jan. 9, pending; Jan. 17, New Hampshire; Jan. 20, Colby; Jan. 24, Northeastern; Feb. 9, M. A. C.; Feb. 14, New Hampshire at Durham; Feb. 16, Dartmouth; Feb. 21, Boston University; Feb. 24, Northeastern at Boston; Feb. 27, M. I. T.; March 3, open; March 7, Dartmouth at Hanover.

Swimming and wrestling are more or less unknown quantities, altho here again the material on hand is plentiful. Capt. Norm Arnold, Ed Sittler, Freddie Brace, Johnny Wells, and Otto Kerner will be sadly missed, but in their places Coach Barry has Capt. Ray Hall, New England Intercollegiate champion in the dashes, Wally Koebig, Pearsall, Laadt, Hawkinson, Walsh, Aldrich, Williams, Barnes, and White, a promising sophomore, as well as other likely candidates. The schedule: Dec. 12, Conn. State at Providence; Jan. 10, Columbia at

New York; Jan. 17, Harvard at Cambridge; Jan. 24, Pennsylvania at Providence; Feb. 5, McGill at Providence; Feb. 14, Worcester Polytech at Worcester; Feb. 18, M. I. T. at Cambridge; Feb. 21, Army at West Point; Feb. 25, Yale at New Haven; Feb. 28, Bowdoin at New Brunswick; March 5, Dartmouth at Providence; March 13, 14 N. E. I. S. A. (place not settled); March 20, 21 I. S. A.

The wrestling team was none too successful last year, hit as it was by illness and ineligibilities, but with several experienced men on hand, it is very likely that the veteran Coach Herrick will once more turn out a winning team. Interest is particularly heightened as the New England Intercollegiates are to be held at Brown gymnasium on March 13 and 14. Outstanding grapplers at this writing are: Chaset, 115 lbs.; Alper, 125; Quillan, 135; Spiwak and Babst, 145; Edes and Brody, 165; Wentworth, 175, and Bill and Tom Gilbane in the unlimited classes. Chaset, Alper, Brody and Wentworth are all veterans, the latter being captain last year, while Quillan and the Gilbanes all wrestled on the 1933 team. The 1934 schedule is as follows: Jan. 10, Brooklyn Poly at Providence; Jan. 17, Yale at New Haven; Jan. 21, Harvard at Providence; Feb. 14, Pending; Feb. 21, Springfield at Springfield; Feb. 28, M. I. T. at Cambridge; March 7, Tufts at Providence; March 13, and 14, N. E. I. W. A. at Providence.

Coach Powers has issued the first call for candidates for the Varsity track team. Altho the season does not open until after the Christmas vacation, Powers always likes to get his men in shape early. Outstanding

Notes of the Month

Fred C. Broomhead, 1905, was host at his yearly dinner to members of the University football team, at Carr's, Dec. 2. Nearly 100 were present, including President Clarence Barbour, and eleven former captains of Brown football teams.

Thirty-three athletic contests have been listed for the 1934 winter sports teams, in schedules announced by Dr. F. W. Marvel. Seventeen of these will precede similar varsity engagements.

Phi Delta Theta, touch football champions of Brown, annexed the mythical New England championship on Dec. 6, by defeating Sigma Alpha Mu, Harvard league winners, on Soldiers Field, Cambridge, 12-6. Moulton, Kay, Mitchell, Rodgers and Walsh featured for the Phi Deltas.

If plans in formulation are carried out, the University will be represented by a polo team in the near future. A meeting of those interested was held on Dec. 9.

Edward B. Aldrich, 1893, a loyal Brown alumnus, tendered the members of the 1934 team a football banquet on Dec. 9. In addition to the freshman gridders, President Barbour and Coaches Bond, Staff and McLaughry were among the invited guests.

Brunonians Far and Near

Faculty

Professor R. C. Archibald of the Department of Mathematics has been elected an honorary member of the Society of Sciences of Cluj, Rou-mania. Cluj is one of the four university centers of Roumania. Professor Archibald spoke on "Mathematics Before the Greeks" at Rutgers University on Dec. 5.

Professor A. F. Hinrichs of the Department of Economics was one of the speakers at the meeting of the Taylor Society at the Hotel Pennsylvania, New York, on Dec. 5. He described industrial planning in Russia of today, with emphasis on the breadth of control the Russian authorities have established over prices, wages and distribution in order to get stabilized growth of production.

Vernon Rice, lecturer in the Department of Biblical Literature, spoke at the 125th anniversary of the founding of the Crompton, R. I., Baptist Church on Nov. 10. He also addressed the Church School staff of the First Baptist Church of Fall River on Nov. 13.

Professor Leonard Carmichael of the Department of Psychology was a guest at the annual meeting of the New England Association of Teachers of English, held in Springfield, Mass., last month. The general subject was "Relationship Between Thinking and Expressing," and Dr. Carmichael gave the summing up from the viewpoint of educational psychology.

Dr. Carl C. Branson, instructor in geology, has had his thesis, "Paleontology and Stratigraphy of the Phosphoria Formation," published as one of the University of Missouri Studies.

Professor William Adams Brown, Jr., of the Department of Economics gave a talk on the subject, "Various Phases of Russia," before a group of Faculty members and undergraduates in the Brown Union on Dec. 12. Professor Brown was in Russia during the revolution in 1917 and again last summer. The Union Governing Board and O. T. Gilmore, student counselor, arranged the meeting.

Professor William T. Hastings of the English Department was a speaker at the annual dinner of the Radcliffe Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa at Agassiz House, Cambridge, on Dec. 12.

Professor S. Foster Damon of the English Department is the author of a story for children, "The Night After Christmas," which has been published by Albert and Charles Boni. Vera Bock has illustrated it.

Professor Robert McBurney Mitchell of the Department of Germanic Languages and Literatures was the after-dinner speaker at the Providence Plantations Club, Nov. 26. His subject was "Personal Impressions of Germany Today."

Professors James A. Hall and P. N. Kistler and E. J. McGuire, graduate assistant, of the Division of Engineering attended the annual meeting of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers held in New York during the week of Dec. 2.

Professor Walter Ballou Jacobs, director of University Extension, was chosen secretary emeritus of the New England Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools at the 45th annual meeting in Boston on Dec. 6. Professor Jacobs had been secretary-treasurer of the association since 1910. Dean Emeritus Otis E. Randall was re-elected a member of the executive committee.

James Brown Herreshoff, member of the class of 1857 for three years, and for two more years a student in the chemical laboratory, died in Riverdale, N. Y., Dec. 5, 1930. Born in Bristol, R. I., March 18, 1834, the son of Charles F. and Julia Ann (Lewis) Herreshoff, he was the oldest of seven sons, several of whom have become noted as America's foremost yacht designers and builders. After leaving Brown he worked for the Rumford Chemical Company until 1863; and between 1865 and 1895, when he decided to retire, he perfected several inventions of great value. To quote a contemporary writer: "He first designed the fin type of keel now used on all racing yachts. He invented a mercurial anti-fouling paint and he had much to do with the designing of the successful America's Cup defenders, Vigilant, Defender, Columbia, Constitution, Reliance and Resolute, all built at his brothers' shipyard. But Mr. Herreshoff, during his long life, also did other things than play with yachts. He designed and constructed the first naphtha-driven motorcycle in America. He invented the coil boiler and the sliding seat for rowboats. He perfected sewing machines and invented means of measuring the specific heat of gases. His was a long and a full life; and yachting in particular will miss a familiar figure and his inventive mind." He is survived by three sons and two daughters. His great-grandfather was John Brown, 1773, honorary, one of the university's early benefactors.

1868

William E. Lincoln is again occupying his house in Sarasota, Fla., for the winter.

1876

The new dormitory that Dr. George Carroll Smith has given to Bates College will be "of sand-struck brick laid in Flemish bond, with limestone trimmings. There will be 22 rooms on a floor, most of them arranged in suites to accommodate two students each." It will stand between Hathorn Hall and Hedge Laboratory on the Bates campus. Incidentally, the statement in the November Monthly that Smith spent three years at Bates was incorrect. He was there for two years before transferring to Brown to continue his studies toward a degree.

1877

Asa E. Goddard's address for the winter, he writes, is 8 Avon Street, Cambridge, Mass.

1880

Dr. George T. Baker, orthodontist, now has his office at 419 Boylston Street, Boston.

H. D. Lane reports that his present address is Box 577, Orland, Calif.

Austin P. Foster has become editor of "Tennessee Industry," a new magazine devoted to the commercial interests of the State. Foster is also secretary of the Tennessee Historical Society, with his headquarters at 507-510 Hitchcock Bldg., Nashville, Tenn.

The Jefferson Shiel Squash Racquets House has been dedicated at Episcopal Academy, Philadelphia. Stony McLinn, the well known sports writer in the Philadelphia Evening Ledger, spoke of the dedication as "a unique tribute to a non-athletic professor" and paid his respects to "Uncle Jeff," teacher of mathematics for forty-nine years and "guide, philosopher and friend" to the boys. "The famous old academy," McLinn went on, "had not selected the coach of an athletic team, nor a teacher who had made his mark in sports competition in his student days, as the one to be honored. They chose an instructor in math, whose only part in the recreational activities was that of counselor." He explained that "Uncle Jeff's" classes are the most popular at the academy and that "Uncle Jeff" himself stands high with the boys because he knows so well how to blend study and recreation.

Dr. Alfred Williams Anthony, according to the newspaper dispatches, has made a gift of $100 "to each of 21 English cathedrals," following a recent tour of England. In a letter to the Dean of Carlisle Cathedral he said: "I found that these holy shrines were open to visitors without charge or at a merely nominal charge. Officials and caretakers were uniformly courteous and obliging. My countrymen in large numbers thronged through the naves and aisles of these cathedrals, which bore to me a mingled testimony of beauty, of past patience, of present vitality and spiritual ministrations."

1886

The new address of Rev. Arthur Rogers, rector emeritus of St. Mark's Church, Evanston, Ill., is Lazy Lawn, Newport, R. I.

Dr. George H. Crooker and Mrs. Crooker have given their house at 101 Benefit Street, Providence, to the Cathedral Foundation of the Episcopal Diocese of Rhode Island for use as a deanery, together with a $50,000 endowment for maintaining the property. The house and land will become available for use on the death of Dr. Crooker, and subject to a life interest of Mrs. Crooker. The gift is made in memory of Dr. Crooker's parents, Josiah Whipple and Eliza Stockford (Hazard) Crooker. The Providence Journal said editorially that the "announced intention . . . gives added force to the movement now under way for the preservation of this ancient neighborhood for new and dignified purposes. . . . It is pleasant to see a historic section of the city thus safeguarded for the future. It may indeed be that the North Main-Benefit district will play an even larger part in the public life of the city in years to come than has been generally anticipated."

"Thoughts at Daybreak," an article by Rev. Dr. Charles L. White in the Watchman-Examiner of Nov. 20, 1930, was a memory and an appreciation of the late Judge Frank S. Dietrich—a beautiful tribute to our classmate by his companion in college and lifelong friend. His characterization of Dietrich is a just and able one: "A Christian layman, a distinguished lawyer, fast climbing to the pinnacle of his profession, and another wise man of the West."

Lauriston H. Hazard's daughter, Miss Betty Hazard, is a student at the School of Sculpture of the Academie des Beaux Arts, Paris. Miss Hazard has studied at the Rhode Island School of Design and in Boston and has already exhibited some of her pieces.

1890

Rev. Albert E. Kingsley, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Yarmouth, Me., is now settled at 11 South St., Yarmouth.

William Benjamin Perry died at the Hartford, Conn., Hospital, Nov. 24, 1930, after an illness of six months. Death resulted from a heart weakened by an attack of influenza, against which he fought valiantly. His life was full of varied contacts; he lived it well and unselfishly. Born in Lime Rock, Conn., Oct. 27, 1870, the son of William Benjamin and Phebe Marion (Holden) Perry, he prepared at the Lakeville Classical School. After graduation from Brown he went with Scarborough Bros., real estate, Portland, Me. In 1897 he served as organist of St. Luke's Cathedral, Portland. From 1898 to 1904 he was in the New York office of the Scovill Mfg. Co., and from 1904 to 1911 he acted as Curator of the Hotchkiss School, Lakeville. Resigning in June, 1911, he took over the management of the famous Farnam Tavern, and as the friendly landlord of that tavern he was known to many Brown men. In recent years he also specialized in dairying. As a member of the Lakeville Board of Assessors he earned a statewide reputation for his knowledge of taxation problems. He served on the Lakeville Board of Selectmen, the Board of Finance, the Fire District Committee, and had been Justice of the Peace since 1927. He loved music; he was organist, pianist and leader in choral work. He was active in the Litchfield County Choral Union, especially the Salisbury Choir, and he trained and conducted choral societies in various towns. He was fond of outdoor life, tennis being his favorite game. He also had a keen interest in club work among boys, in the Masons, the Connecticut Society of the Sons of the Revolution, the Lakeville Chamber of Commerce, St. John's Church and in his college fraternity, Zeta Psi. He was a Grand Chapter officer in 1927-28; and in the capacity of adviser and counselor he visited many chapters of the fraternity. "Uniformly hospitable to his friends and always desirous of being helpful to people in all walks of life, his passing leaves a vacant place difficult to fill." He is survived by a brother, Charles H. Perry of Waterbury, Conn.

Rev. Dr. George W. C. Hill of the South Congregational Church, New Britain, Conn., was the Brown representative at the inauguration of Rev. Dr. Robbins W. Barstow as president of the Hartford Theological Seminary Foundation, Hartford, Conn., on Oct. 28. He opened the ceremonies with an invocation.

1893

Archibald C. Matteson has been re-elected president of the Turks Head Club of Providence.

1894

H. Anthony Dyer ended last month a series of seven lectures, "Pilgrimages to the Great Shrines of Art," which he gave in connection with the University Extension on College Hill. Dyer has also been on the program at the Rhode Island School of Design, where he spoke on Dutch artists of the 19th century.

Rev. Franklin D. Elmer, for nine years pastor of the First Baptist Church, Hamilton, N. Y., and active in the Baptist Education Society of New York State, has changed his address to West Hartford, Conn.

Guy Ashton Andrews, son of former President E. Benjamin Andrews, died in Sebring, Fla., Dec. 9, 1930, after a two weeks' illness with pneumonia. He was born in Newton Centre, Mass., July 18, 1873, the son of E. Benjamin Andrews, '70, and Ella Anna (Allen) Andrews. He entered Brown from Worcester Academy, but left before the completion of his course to go to Dartmouth, where he was graduated in 1896. He received his LL. B. at the University of Nebraska in 1901 and practiced law in Lincoln and in Florida. He was married Jan. 26, 1914, to Frances Ellen Davis, who survives him, together with his mother. His fraternity was Alpha Delta Phi.

Justice Chester W. Barrows of the Supreme Court of Rhode Island is recuperating from an illness that put him on the inactive list coincident with his return from Europe early in the fall.

T. B. Baylies, who, we suppose, will soon be hitting the trail Florida-ward for golf and refreshment of spirit, has changed his house address in New Bedford, Mass., to 33 Seventh Street.

Rev. John F. Watts, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Lawrence, Kan., has been elected president of the Kansas Baptist Convention. He is also chairman of the executive committee of the trustees of Ottawa University.

Frederick A. Jones has taken office as Mayor of Cranston, R. I., where he has been a resident for 28 years and where he has taken a lively interest in civic affairs. Cranston, as Mayor Jones admits with pride, is the fastest growing city in Rhode Island.

1897

Dr. William S. Learned, of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, was one of the principal speakers at the annual meeting of the New York State Association of Deans held in Syracuse, Nov. 21 and 22. Learned is director of the Pennsylvania study on relations between secondary and higher education.

Rev. Benjamin T. Livingston is living at 6106 Nassau Road, Nassau Court, Overbrook, Philadelphia. He is Professor of Evangelism at the Eastern Baptist Theological Seminary, where he is carrying forward "a vital form of activity in the organization of student groups for evangelistic work in Philadelphia and vicinity."

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and Mrs. Rockefeller returned home on Thanksgiving Day after a trip through Spain and Southern France. Rockefeller told his interviewers at the pier in New York that his experiences in Spain were unusually pleasant.

Charles D. Millard has been elected to Congress from the 25th New York District, which includes northern and eastern Westchester and Rockland County. Millard has been prominent in Republican politics in Westchester for many years.

W. H. Cady, chemist with Slater & Sons, Webster, Mass., has been named a vice president of the American Association of Chemists and Colorists.

Dennis F. O'Brien is back at his office again after having recovered from an operation at the Manhattan Eye, Ear and Throat Hospital, New York, in November.

Severance Johnson is a member of The Silurians, an organization (as the New York Herald-Tribune describes it) of old newspaper men who worked on five past and present New York newspapers. Johnson was at the dinner of the Silurians, the first one of the season, given not long ago at the Hotel St. Regis in New York. The speaker of the occasion was Irving Bacheller, who told of the days when Stephen Crane and O. Henry were active as reporters.

The sympathy of the class goes out to Edward A. Stockwell in the loss of his wife, who was Miss Annie May Wallace and who died on Nov. 16, 1930, after an illness of six weeks.

Judge Frank H. Hammill died at St. Joseph's Hospital, Providence, Nov. 30, 1930, following a fall at his home in Bristol, R. I., about midnight of Nov. 27. He was on his way down to the cellar to fix the furnace for the night when his dog, hearing his footsteps, bounded up the stairs to meet him. Judge Hammill tripped over the dog and went all of the way down stairs. He never regained consciousness. He was born in Bristol, Jan. 11, 1878, the son of Patrick and Mary (Gallagher) Hammill and came to Brown from the Bristol High School. From Brown (he entered with '99, but took his degree in 1900) he went to Harvard Law School, from which he received his LL. B. in 1904. He commenced the practice of law in Bristol, where he was Judge of Probate, 1905-08, president of the Town Council, 1907-08, and Representative from Bristol in the General Assembly, 1909-19. He also maintained a law office in Providence. He served as Deputy Speaker of the House, 1913-14, and Speaker, 1915-19. He was a fair, impartial presiding officer, and he left behind him a reputation as a leader alert, courteous and straightforward. He had been judge of the Fifth District Court at Bristol since 1910. He was married April 17, 1914, to Miss Olivia M. C. Day of Providence, who survives him, together with two sisters and three brothers. Judge Hammill was a member of the Providence Lodge of Elks, the Knights of Columbus, the Pomham Club and secretary of the Herreshoff Manufacturing Company of Bristol. To his widow the sympathy of the class is given in full measure.

H. H. Mallory is once again comfortably settled at his winter house in Mount Dora, Fla.

Thomas H. de Coudres, superintendent of schools in Johnston, R. I., is living at 7 Euclid Avenue, Providence.

1900

James Warren reports a change of address from the Hotel Gramatan to the Hotel Salisbury, 123 West 57th St., New York.

1901

Elmer S. Chace, City Solicitor of Providence since 1915, has resumed the private practice of law in association with Edward A. Stockwell, '99. Chace became a clerk in the law department of the city of Providence in 1905 and Second Assistant City Solicitor in 1906. He succeeded Albert A. Baker, '84, in December, 1915, and since that time until his retirement was one of the best known figures at City Hall.

John H. Slattery is the new president of the Rhode Island Bar Association.

Dr. William T. Knoop died at Wallum Lake, R. I., Dec. 7, 1930, following an illness of long standing, the nature of which could not be diagnosed by physicians. He had undergone treatment at the Homeopathic and City Hospitals in Providence, at Martha's Vineyard, Mass., and Boston, as well as at Wallum Lake. He was born in Providence, June 29, 1879, the son of Theodore W. and Emma Matilda Knoop. He came to Brown from the Classical High School and, after graduation, went to Harvard Medical School, from which he received his M. D. in 1906. He commenced the practice of medicine in Providence. Nine years ago he moved to Edgewood and, at the time that illness forced him to give up work, was a medical inspector in the Cranston public schools. He was married April 29, 1905, to Miss Susie M. Doughty, who survives him, together with his parents, a brother and two sisters. He was a member of the Rhode Island Medical Society and the Odd Fellows.

BROWN ALUMNI MONTHLY

Edwin Farnham Greene's new address is 11 Thomas Street, New York.

Theodore F. Pevear reports that he is engaged in direct mail advertising, with his offices at 1099 Jay St., Rochester, N. Y.

Jerry Holmes has changed his address to 77 Linden Boulevard, Brooklyn, N. Y. He is with the Leyendecker Branch, Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Company, 225 Broadway, New York.

Under the title, "A Skyscraper Leap to Fame," the New York Herald Tribune of Sunday, Nov. 30, had a stirring article about the rise of Raymond M. Hood as one of the country's outstanding architects. "Hood is perhaps most famous today," the article said, "for his ability to create beautiful yet highly efficient buildings in an original, non-traditional way. . . . His latest work, the 'Daily News' building (in New York) is free from all superfluous ornamentation—an inspiring mass of white which when viewed from any angle or height presents a satisfying unity of form. Experts agree that this building is the work of an artist."

Samuel Moffat is vice president of Wooster College, Wooster, O. Moffat raised a million and a half dollars for Wooster recently, we are told, and the Wooster authorities made him a vice president that he might carry on his good work for the college, one of the most progressive in the Middle West.

Edgar L. Ashley reports that his address is Foxboro, Mass., and that he is now engaged as a dealer in art.

Louis F. Baker has taken charge of the Cleveland office of Remington-Rand, Inc., office equipment, at 1240 Huron Road, Cleveland. Baker had been a member of the sales staff of the Baltimore, Md., office until his promotion. His daughter, Anne, is a member of the Senior Class at Smith College this year, after having spent her Junior year in France.

In the Stadium Dedication Number of the Notre Dame Alumnus, published in October, an article, "Coaches Before Rockne," contains praise of Thomas A. Barry, who went to South Bend to coach the football squad in 1906. "Barry had a good system of coaching," said the writer. "He believed in leading his men, never in pushing them, and in giving every man a fair trial, playing no favorites. . . . A proof of Barry's football knowledge came forward in 1907. The material was terrible and things looked mighty gloomy. He knew his men, however. . . . the team was tied for championship (Indiana) honors." Barry left Notre Dame in 1908 to go to the University of Wisconsin.

Guy B. Colburn, Professor of Modern Languages, Fresno State College, Fresno, Calif., was the author of an article in the Fresno Morning Republican of Oct. 12 entitled, "Vergil Lives Two Thousand Years." Colburn said that to appreciate a poet like Vergil "one must come back to him when high school days are over and some of life's tests have been confronted."

Paul F. Clark's daughter, Eunice W. Clark, is a Freshman at Radcliffe and one of the honor students of the class.

With Colgate Hoyt as the senior partner, the new firm of Stokes, Hoyt & Co. has begun business in stocks at 37 Wall St., New York. For the past year and a half Hoyt has been a general partner in the firm of Stokes, Hodges & Co., which had its origin in 1875 as Tappin & Stokes.

A pleasant and welcome letter that carried the signature of B. B. (Chip) Wood arrived at the Alumni Office a short time ago. Wood is now in his seventh year as librarian of Massachusetts Agricultural College, Amherst, Mass. He is active in the little Brown group in and about Amherst, and it is always a delight to receive one of his characteristic notes telling of a get-together of the group.

Robert I. (Bob) Jamieson is selling oil burners for one company in Providence and A. A. (Bert) Deal is selling for another company. But thus far we understand that Bob and Bert have maintained amicable relations.

M. Stuart Hall, who was at the 25th Reunion, together with Mrs. Hall, had a lively experience on his return to his home in Montour Falls, N. Y. In a letter to the class secretary he said that the return trip was a pleasant one, "but we found a large part of the village under water when we arrived. Water was nearly a foot deep over the sidewalk in front of our house, and we could not get in until a kind neighbor who was out in hip boots took my key and brought my hip boots out of the house to me. Then we carried my family in. . . . The next day I hired some neighbor boys to give Eleanor a boat ride up and down our street and across the lawn right up to the front porch." The flood he added, was caused by a cloudburst in the valley above Montour Falls.

BROWN ALUMNI MONTHLY

Capt. F. Webster Cook, U. S. A., is now comfortably settled at Fort Dupont, Del., where, he confides, he does not have to have breakfast until 8 a. m. Cook has traveled some 30,000 miles since he last visited College Hill.

Major Spencer A. Townsend, Cavalry, U. S. A., is attached to the command and General Staff School, Fort Leavenworth, Kan., at this writing.

F. R. (Fritz) Hazard will again represent the town of Narragansett in the Rhode Island House of Representatives. Fritz announced early in the fall that he would not be a candidate because politics took much time from his poultry farm. The Republican town committee was in despair and was ready to throw up its hands and admit defeat when Fritz said that he would run again, even though it meant that he would have to tend his chickens and let politics take second place during the first part of the legislative session.

Dr. Robert M. Lord is a member of the Board of Governors, University Club, Providence, to serve until October, 1933.

Howard A. Brown has shifted the scene of his action from Chicago to Los Angeles, where his address is Aluminum Company of America, 1205 Western Pacific Bldg., 1301 South Broadway.

The Medway, Mass., High School football team was one of the best in its class in New England last fall, we are told. It won six out of seven games on the schedule. J. G. Anderson is the principal of the school.

Harvey G. Denham's new business address is 650 South Grand Avenue, Room 1214, Quinby Bldg., Los Angeles. He is living at 114 East Camilla St., Whittier, Calif.

E. V. Mitchell reports that his mail should hereafter be addressed to 529 Ward Street, Newton Centre, Mass.

Dr. William Harris's office for the practice of medicine is now located at 70 East 77th St., New York.

Dr. Thomas J. McGovern, who left college in April, 1917, to enlist in the United States Navy, died at the Norfolk County Hospital, Braintree, Mass., on Nov. 13, 1930, after an illness of ten weeks. Born in Woonsocket, R. I., Nov. 5, 1896, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James McGovern, he entered Brown from the North Attleboro, Mass., High School, with the intention of studying to become a doctor. After his service in the navy as a pharmacist's mate, first class, he returned to Brown in 1920 and later transferred to Tufts Medical School, from which he was graduated in 1927. He had been on the staff of the Norfolk County Hospital since graduation. He was a member of Newell-Blais Post, V. F. W., the American Medical Society and the Knights of Columbus. "He had a personality that radiated good fellowship; he was as devout in his devotion to his church as in his allegiance to country and profession." He is survived by three brothers, Edward and James McGovern of North Attleboro, and Frank McGovern of Pawtucket.

Charlie Huggins and Mrs. Huggins and their growing family are now at home at 4325 Robinson St., Flushing, N. Y.

The Newark, N. J., Call of Nov. 30 had a special article about George W. Grimm, Jr., giving all of George's life history and noting some of the things that George has done for the common good in his city and state. To quote: "At 32 George W. Grimm, Jr., who was recently elected leader of the Essex delegation in the New Jersey Assembly, is one of the busiest men in these parts. If each day were about five hours longer it would suit him perfectly. Only seven years ago he walked out of Harvard Law School with a sheepskin tucked under his arm, resolved to practice law in New Jersey. Today he is associated with the law firm of Lum, Tamblin & Colyer, Newark; he's police recorder of East Orange, a teacher in the New Jersey Law School and a member of the Abell Commission. He is married and has two children, and in the opinion of politicians, is a young man who could carve a sizable niche for himself in politics." But George says: "I do not intend 'to let politics get me'."

George R. Ashbey of the Larcher-Horton Company gave a radio talk over WEAN on Dec. 14, his subject being "Advertising." George told his radio listeners that "the advertising copy writer must have the reporter's nose for news and be able to apply it to advertising work." He described advertising as "the most interesting, irritating, precarious, potentially profitable business in the world." His broadcast was one of a vocational series backed by the Providence Y. M. C. A.

C. B. Howard of the advertising staff of the Hartford Fire Insurance Company is the instructor for the practical course in advertising which is under the sponsorship of the Hartford Advertising Club and which is being given at the Hartford Public Evening High School. Joseph L. Ahearn, who is with the law firm of Raymond & Semple, Providence, has been admitted to practice before the United States District Court.

J. Gorham Campbell is a salesman with the Sinclair Refining Co., Little Ferry, N. J.

Edson C. Lockwood, who is teaching mathematics at the American College, Madura, India, reports that his youngster (the boy was eight months old when Edson's note was written in October) is beginning to show signs of wanting to go places and that he will be ready for Brown in the class of 1947. Edson wrote that "here we've come very near to achieving Doc Marvel's idea of 'a team for every man and a man for every team.' For our 400 students we have football (soccer), basketball, indoor baseball, tennis, badminton, volley ball and hockey. Baseball was introduced only last year, but you'd be surprised to see how it has taken hold. We have six excellent tennis courts and there are about 65 students who play regularly. The courts are assigned to players according to ability and a man may move up by challenging another man on a higher court. The system works beautifully."

James R. Cherry, Jr., member of the class for two years, is an executive with the Keller-Dorian Color-film Corporation, 522 Fifth Avenue, New York. Cherry received an LL. B. at Fordham University School of Law in 1928.

Does any bright young man in the class, particularly if he is a member of Theta Delta Chi, know the whereabouts of H. B. (Hank) Smith? The Alumni Office reports that his South Orange, N. J., address is incorrect, and it would appreciate a card from one of Hank's chums telling where Hank may be found.

Percy F. Smith and Mrs. Smith are living at 147 Main Street, Andover, Mass. Smith is teaching at Phillips Academy, and he says that he and Mrs. Smith "are enjoying the associations of this fine school and are happy to make our home in such a place as Andover." We understand that Smith was all set to settle in New York to teach at a private school there when he received the opportunity at Andover, where Brown, in addition to Smith, is represented on the Faculty by A. A. Freeman, '89, C. H. Forbes, '90, F. M. Boyce, '09, Trask Wilkinson, '25, and Kenneth S. Minard, '26.

THE STEADY SCIENTIFIC PROGRESS OF THE BELL LABORATORIES SHOWS IN THE EVER-INCREASING QUALITY AND SCOPE OF YOUR TELEPHONE SERVICE

To clear all barriers for the human voice

An Advertisement of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company

BELL TELEPHONE LABORATORIES, Incorporated, is the scene of a progressive conquest of natural forces that aims to let you speak clearly, quickly and cheaply to any one, anywhere in the land and even to distant countries. More than 5000 scientists and assistants are busy there and elsewhere in the Bell System studying the problems of sound transmission. Its work is the growing foundation of the telephone art; and it has, besides, helped to make possible the radio, sound pictures and special apparatus for the medical profession.

Among its achievements are the underground cables which make city telephone service possible, better and faster long distance service, service to ships at sea, and to millions of telephones beyond the seas. The steady scientific progress of the Bell Laboratories shows in the ever-increasing quality and scope of your telephone service. Its new developments in every type of equipment clarify and speed up your telephone talks and give you more and better service at low rates. Every advance it makes is available throughout the Bell System.

The Bell System is an American institution owned by more than 500,000 stockholders. It places before you the benefits of its technical achievements and the co-ordinated efforts of more than 400,000 trained workers. It accepts its responsibility to further the development and welfare of the nation by furnishing the public the best of telephone service at the least cost consistent with financial safety.

Miss Carolyn Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Young Williams of Pottsville, Pa., were married on Oct. 11, 1930. Woodrow Archbald, Yale, '30, was best man, and the ushers included Clyde C. Barrows, '29, William J. Parish, '29, and Allyn W. Robbins, '29. Mr. and Mrs. Archbald are at home at 27 South Glenwood Avenue, Allentown, Pa.
